Delicate Diplomacy

Dulles, Saud Confer Over Mideast Aid

WASHINGTON — UP — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred with King Saud today in the hope of winning the Saudi Arabian monarch's support for U.S. efforts to block Soviet penetration of the Middle East.

The two men talked together at Blair House, the official residence of presidential visitors. In today's conference, Dulles took over the delicate diplomacy which Mr. Eisenhower initiated at talks with King Saud in the White House yesterday afternoon.

Saudi Arabian Ambassador Abdullah Al-Khayyal said the talks got off Wednesday to a "very good start." He said "things went better than I expected."

Asks For Arms

Official sources said the King asked arms for defense of his country. One source understood the King wants some $250 million worth of fighter planes, tanks, and other equipment.

Before getting down to the official business which brought him here, King Saud drove in a cavalcade of black limousines to Arlington National Cemetery where he placed a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The countryside was covered by about two inches of snow which fell during the night. The snow was melting, but slowly enough to give the visiting King a picture of white-clad hills and trees as he never saw in his Arabi.

Dulles' main hope was that he could convince Saud, an anti-communist, to stand firm against growing Russian efforts to woo the Middle East and to use his influence with other Arab nations to do likewise.

As the major part of his effort, Dulles hoped to win a statement from Saud acclaiming the Eisenhower Doctrine, as a welcomed offer of U.S. aid and in keeping peace in the Middle East.

The Doctrine declares the United States will use its armed forces if necessary, to combat any overt Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Self-Appointed Lawyer

Judge Declares Case A Mistrial

A self-appointed "attorney" ran afoul of the county's president judge yesterday, and his case was declared a mistrial following more than two hours of testimony before a criminal court jury.

The "attorney," Francis Burke, Warmister, was defending himself on a charge of fraudulent conversion and passing a worthless check in Middletown township.

Burke, who tried his own case rather than let the court appoint an attorney to represent him, was repeatedly warned by President Judge Edward G. Biester about his manner of cross-examining witnesses who testified against him.

Barely heeding the warnings, Burke relentlessly questioned Robert B. Durst, Richboro, a former business partner who testified against Burke on the fraudulent conversion charge.

Declares Perjury
After questioning Durst on a check stub, during which Burke said he didn't "get the answer I wanted," Burke declared, "This man has perjured himself!"

Judge Biester immediately called the case a mistrial and held Burke for a new trial at a later date.

The check stub was from a purchase of two Colt revolvers which Burke made while a member of the Po-Lab corporation, when Durst, his brother, Burke and Burke's wife were partners.

Burke wanted to know if the stub was altered, and when Durst said "no," Burke charged him with perjury.

Burke is also charged with

Good Evening!

Winter still trying.

If we get through it without a bucketful of the white scattered deep over the landscape we'll be lucky.

Yet, January all but done.

And when you start celebrating Groundhog Day, Lincoln's Birthday, Valentine Day and Washington's Birthday you know it's only a hop, skip and a jump into the young-man's-fancy-turns season.

Meantime, we note Mr. Ike slaps Mr. Wilson—ever so gently—on the wrist for that slur against the National Guard.

And even takes the sting out of the slap by suggesting the Guard should have more strenuous training. We guess maybe he's right.

Must reading: That Alsop Brothers article on the necessity of the Republican party getting itself hep to the times in this week's Statepost.

Eisenhower must do with the GOP what Roosevelt and his personal magic did with the Democrats if the party is to survive as anything but a minority party. The Alsops say, and they're dead on the beam.

Floods raging in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Thank your lucky stars you are in Lower Bucks where we're never discomforted by anything but visibility-zero fogs, three-day northeastern, week-long drizzles, an occasional hurricane and millions of stray dogs.

"Nothing."

"Sorry, we can't use you. We already have five people in that position."

Gov. Leader To Disclose Fiscal Picture

State's Budget Expected To Hit Record $2 Million

HARRISBURG — UP — Gov. George M. Leader will disclose the financial picture of the last two years of his administration to a joint session of the General Assembly next Tuesday.

The governor told his weekly news conference today that he postponed his budget message to the lawmakers for 24 hours at the request of legislative leaders.

He will preview the budget for Capitol Hill newsmen at a briefing during a luncheon at the Executive Mansion Monday. The governor's fiscal blueprint for the 1957-58 fiscal period is expected to reach a record $2,000,000,000.

Questioned on Shakeup

Most of the questioning at the conference revolved around the shakeup he has made in governmental posts in the last several weeks, topped by the firing of John R. Torquato as secretary of Labor and Industry. He said he has no plans for further changes at the cabinet level "for the present."

In that connection he scotched reports that Highways Secretary John J. Lawler might be shifted to another post.

"Recent speculation concerning Lawler has been completely and entirely unfounded," the governor said. "I think he is a very hard working, conscientious and able administrator."

To a question of whether he held the same opinion of Revenue Secretary Gerald A. Gleeson, the governor replied:

Gleeson Cooperating

"Gleeson is participating in the strengthening of the Sales Tax Division. He is cooperating and cooperating very well."

The governor also:

1. Said he did not discuss his plan for reorganizing the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission on a non-salaried basis with legislators because he has been informed it would require amending 10 statutes, and must be done so as not to disturb any turnpike indentures. He said while the changes are "by no means impossible, they require very painstaking preparation by the state Justice Department."

2. Discounted reports of wire-tapping of telephones of members of the administration. He said Attorney General Thomas D. McBride has the only wire-tapping equipment and said he has "complete confidence that such equipment could not be in better hands and will not be abused."

Immigration Haven Asked

WASHINGTON — UP — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for new immigration legislation that would grant a haven in the United States to persons who "flee from Communist persecution and tyranny."

In a special message to Congress, the President also requested liberalization of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, basic immigration law of the land.

At the outset of his message the President outlined the need for emergency legislation to help Hungarian and other refugees.

He said the eyes of the world have been fixed on Hungary where thousands of men, women and children have fled to seek asylum abroad.

Behind Scenes of Levittown Police

How many policemen cover Levittown?

How much are the policemen paid?

The answer to these questions and many more pertaining to police protection in Levittown will be answered starting tomorrow in a new series to be run by the Courier and Times.

The series was compiled by the League of Women Voters of Bristol township which turned the tables on the four police departments covering Levittown by asking them a long series of questions.

The answers to those questions give a comprehensive outline of exactly how the law is administered in Levittown.

Don't miss this new series, starting tomorrow in the Bristol Daily Courier and Levittown Times.

Sgt. McCarr Honored For Bucks Service

County Leaders Give Banquet For Station Head

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier and Times Staff Writer

Industry, business, and civic leaders of Lower Bucks county last night held a banquet to pay tribute to Sgt. Adrian J. McCarr, commandant of Fairless Hills State Police sub-station, whose seven years of duty in this area ends today.

Sgt. McCarr will soon report to Troop D headquarters in Bethlehem for a new assignment. The veteran trooper was cited for exemplary service, community interest, and leadership in tributes made formally at the banquet table and informally before and after the dinner.

Sgt. McCarr was scheduled to leave for his new post tomorrow morning. However, the transfer has been delayed for several days as the result of the death of Sgt. Chester W. Reitz, 50.

Sgt. Reitz was scheduled to take over the duties of Sgt. Charles Jones in Quakertown. Sgt. Jones in turn was to take over Sgt. McCarr's post.

Next Week
Sgt. McCarr said the transfer will probably take place in the early part of next week. He said a full military funeral will be held for Sgt. Reitz on Sunday in Quakertown, where he lived. Sgt. Reitz had been stationed in Langhorne for several years in the early 1930's.

Some 50 persons attended the banquet at the Torresdale-Frankford Country club, Philadelphia, arranged under the leadership of Stephen P. Midouhas, president of Kemline, inc., of Edgely.

The popular sergeant received a motion picture camera from the banquet sponsors, and a handsomely printed statement of accolade. The Rev. Paul L. Shogan, pastor of Our Lady of Per-

May Freeze Tonight

1-Inch Snow Seen With Cold Rain

Snow dropped over Lower Bucks early this morning and before it turns to a cold rain the accumulation is expected to reach an inch.

The Weather Bureau at Trenton said rain and snow were expected to take turns falling through most of today and tonight.

Most of today's snow would be washed away by the rain but falling temperatures tonight may freeze just enough of the precipitation to make roads slippery.

The snow this morning was expected to change to rain as temperatures began an afternoon rise. It was 32 at 10 a.m. The afternoon high was expected to reach the high 30's.

Gradual clearing is forecast for tomorrow with afternoon temperatures climbing to the moderate 40's.

Yesterday's high reading was 38 at 3 p.m. and this morning's low was 25 degrees at 7 a.m.

Escape Nets Man 30 Days

An escape from Bensalem police on Nov. 4 cost a Philadelphia man 30 days in prison yesterday, imposed in Bucks County criminal court.

Samuel Page, the escape artist, will serve that sentence after he completes six months on a burglary charge.

Both were imposed by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite yesterday after Page pleaded guilty. The seven months total sentence includes the time Page has been in Bucks County Prison awaiting trial. He was imprisoned on Nov. 5.

40 Poodles Perish In Bucks Fire

Blaze Destroys Buckingham Site; 24 Dogs Are Saved

Forty pedigree poodles burned to death last night when a fire swept the Bric A Bric kennels, Buckingham township.

The loss of the breeding stock and the destruction of the kennels, owned by Mrs. Henry J. Sayres, may reach an estimated $35,000.

Firemen, who fought the blaze from 10 p.m. yesterday until 6 a.m. today, saved 24 dogs in the two-story kennel. Mrs. Sayres said this morning that the fire started while she was out to dinner and that she didn't know what caused the fire.

Trapped In Inferno

Two veterans, Dr. J. A. Deubler, Newtown, and Dr. Albert R. Wagner, Fountainville, stayed at the scene throughout the night caring for the dogs.

The 40 poodles were trapped in the blazing frame structure;

Ted Williams To Marry Model

NEW YORK — UP — Nelva More, a beautiful high fashion model, will marry Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams, her mother announced today.

Trenton-Phila. Buses Back In Operation After Strike

Buses of the Trenton-Philadelphia Coach Co. were back on schedule today after a one-day jurisdictional strike.

In an agreement worked out with the participation of AFL and CIO leaders of Mercer County, N. J., members of Local 282, Transport Workers' Union employed by the firm, are transferring to Division 540, Amalgamated Street Car, Rail and Motor Coach Unions. But the TWU members will maintain separate seniority on their present runs for three years. They ratified the agreement at a meeting in Bristol last night.

Delayed By Pickets

The buses were delayed in Levittown and elsewhere yesterday by pickets. Tires of two buses were deflated and a non-striking driver reported that a stone broke a bus window.

James J. A. Gallagher, president of Local 282 said the agreement satisfies one of the principal aims of the strike, a guarantee of security for his members employed by the Trenton firm. The dispute came after the Trenton Transit Co. purchased the Trenton-Philadelphia Coach Co.

Hold Meeting

After three years, Mr. Gallagher said, the seniority of the Trenton-Philadelphia drivers will be dovetailed in the roster of other Trenton Transit workers, under the contract with the Amalgamated union.

Mr. Gallagher and Thomas J. Flynn, international representative of the Transport Workers

Union, attended the meeting at which the agreement was worked out. The session was jointly called by Presidents Charles Kovacs, of the Mercer County CIO Industrial Union Council and Thomas Dunn, of the Mercer Central Trades Council, AFL.

Norman Baker, president 540 and International Representative Charles Chicomi represented the Amalgamated union with its attorney, while the CIO was represented by Angelo Callisto and Anthony Zuccarello.

The agreement also bars discriminatory action against any employee as a result of the dispute, and that any complaint of such action shall be subject to review of the officers of the Mercer County AFL and CIO Councils.

Ike Declares Disaster Area In Kentucky

Orders Federal Aid to Stricken; 11 Known Dead

President Eisenhower declared Kentucky floodlands a major disaster area today as the death toll mounted to at least 11 in a four-state area where more rain, cold and snow added to the miseries of thousands left homeless.

The Chief Executive ordered federal aid to help the suffering in Kentucky, one of the hardest hit states. West Virginia has made a similar appeal.

Virginia and Tennessee also were hard hit by days of rain that turned placid mountain streams into raging torrents that pounded into one town after another.

Several towns were isolated and not even helicopters could land with desperately-needed food and medicine. Damage soared to an estimated $15 million.

Chandler Makes Appeal

The President acted in response to an appeal by Kentucky Gov. A. B. Chandler who said a large part of eastern Kentucky had been inundated by the worst floods in state history.

The White House said that so far there has been no official request for aid from the governors of Virginia, Tennessee and West Virginia.

The Army, the National Guard, Red Cross and civilian volunteers worked together against the natural barriers of water, mountains, and mud to try to move food and medical supplies into the stricken regions.

Cold, rain and snow were predicted for Kentucky, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Weather Bureau forecast cold and more rain for eastern Tennessee, where TVA installations have held the flood waters partly in check.

At Hazard, Ky., stores, business houses and industries were shut down because of lack of fuel and power. Mud clogged the streets and oozed into some downtown stores. Residents of the town searched for dry firewood to heat their chilly homes.

Army Engineers Arrive
A contingent of Army engineers from Fort Knox, Ky., reached Hazard with a portable electric generator for the United Mine Workers hospital, relieving nurses who have been using hot water

Dinner Honors Sergeant McCarr

petual Help Byzantine Rite Catholic Church, Levittown, just returned from a trip to Europe, gave Sgt. McCarr a picture of himself at an audience with Pope Pius.

Because each person attending the dinner had become personally acquainted with Sgt. McCarr in the past seven years and seen him at work in fast-growing Lower Bucks, the expressions of triumph and handclaps were strong and genuine.

Acting as toastmaster was Pat Mann, manager of the Atlantic Tea Packing co. and a former star of vaudeville, who used a rich store of anecdotes with his professional stage presence to keep the program moving smoothly.

The 8mm movie camera was presented by Thomas R. Janes, vice president of Superior Zinc corp.

Signed Accolade

Charles E. Hunter, president of Hunter-Bristol corp., presented the printed accolade, signed by each one at the dinner. It cited Sgt. McCarr for "seven years of exemplary service as protector of life, property and the welfare of Lower Bucks county, a community interest that transcended his chosen profession and a utilization of leadership in moulding the wholesome opinions and fruitful life of our youth."

"He answered the call created by the vast influx of new citizens to our community with a strong mind, great heart, true faith, and ready hands," the scroll says of Sgt. McCarr. "We are ever grateful for a man whom the lust of office does not kill, and whom the spoils of office cannot buy, a man who has lived by the discovery of what is true and the practice of that which is good."

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

Picked up a bit of interesting info from an article in "Rough Notes," a nationwide insurance magazine. In a story authored by Jacob Schwartz, of the Watson and Schwartz Insurance Agency in the Levittown Shopping center, he noted his agency processed 1683 claims resulting from Hurricane Hazel in 1954. The average cost per claim, Mr. Schwartz pointed out, was a few pennies over $11.

Takes mighty tough tires and good shock-absorbers to enjoy a ride down the Levittown parkway these days. Between the Newportville-Fallsington road and Route 13 in the right hand lane heading South, there are at least half-a-dozen holes. Nothing unusual though, the thawing causes many roads to break up this time of year.

Having lost nine straight basketball games in the Bristol Township Adult League, the Courier and Times team is thinking of setting up a game with the paper's chess team. Bet you two knights, the chess team comes out on top.

Hats off to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mortensen, 56 New School lane, North Park. They have eight children ranging in age from seven months to 19-years-old. Their milk bill proves it too. Each week the milkman delivers 50 quarts.

4000 Bucks County Residents To Get Vote Privilege Warning

Letters Cite Two-Year Deadline

Over 4000 Bucks countians who have not voted in the last two years stand to lose their voter's registration unless they act soon.

The staff of the Bucks county registration office in the Scheetz Building, East Court street, Doylestown, is in the process of withdrawing their names from the rolls.

The commission will mail out 4007 notices to two - year delinquents on Monday.

Delinquent Category

Included in the delinquent category are electors whose registrations have been on the county's active files for the full two-calendar year period, January 1, 1955 to January 1, 1957, and failed to vote during that time at any elections during 1955 and 1956.

Voters who were reinstated early in 1955 and 1956 are not included in the listings, even though they did not vote, inasmuch as reinstatement at that time, made them eligible for two additional years respectively.

Card With Notice

Registration Clerk Robert F. Detweiler said today that accompanying each notice, will be an official reinstatement card upon which the voter must print and sign his or her name, insert the complete address and definite election district.

Unless the reinstatement cards are returned to the Registration Commission within ten days from date of postmark on the notice, the registrations will be cancelled.

"Failure to return the reinstatement cards by Feb. 13, voters whose registrations are due to be cancelled, will be obliged to re-register in order to restore eligibility to vote," Detweiler said. "It is therefore very important that all recipients of the delinquent notices return their reinstatement cards at once."

Family Feud Hangs Over Conference Of AFL-CIO

MIAMI BEACH—UP— Bitter factionalism among trades and industrial unions hung over the winter conference of the huge combined AFL-CIO today as United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald called for a showdown on a family feud.

McDonald has summoned top executives of his union to take up the Steelworkers dispute with the Sheet Metal Workers Union which has refused to install equipment made by Steelworkers.

Roots Of Quarrel

A spokesman said McDonald wanted immediate action on the case from the AFL-CIO Executive Council and union President George Meany.

The quarrel between the two unions had its roots in the period before the two big unions combined. Then the Steelworkers belonged to the CIO and the Sheet Metal Workers to the AFL.

"Malice Aforethought" Since the merger, most of the old AFL unions have gone into the Building Trades department of the AFL-CIO while the majority of the former CIO unions went into the Industrial Union department.

McDonald, in a letter to

Meany last fall, charged the Sheet Metal Workers "deliberately, knowingly and with malice aforethought" violated AFL-CIO laws by allegedly boycotting projects involving Steelworkers.

Meany conferred yesterday with Richard Gray, head of the Building Trades department, and Al Whitehouse, director of the Industrial Union Division, but refused to make any statement. It was reported that the discussion was mainly concerned with ways and means of bringing about permanent peace between the two factions.

Summations Ready

Defense Side Given In Horn Vice Trial

PHILADELPHIA — UP — The prosecution and defense were to present summations today in the trial of former TV performer Bob Horn, charged with intimacy with a teenage girl.

Horn's wife, Ann, an attractive blonde, took the stand as a defense witness Wednesday and said she had warned her husband to ignore pert Florence Lois Gardner because she thought the teenager was infatuated with him.

"Pathological Liar" Horn, 41, of Levittown, also took the stand and called Miss Gardner a "pathological liar" and denied ever having sexual relations with her. Miss Gardner testified she had numerous affairs with Horn, starting when she was 13 years old.

The former teenage dance promoter also denied having been intimate with Miss Gardner on Thanksgiving Day, 1954, as charged by the state. He said he attended a high school football game that day and spent the remainder of the day with his wife and family.

Mrs. Horn corroborated his testimony, saying her husband arrived home around noon and never left the house until the following day.

Horn's son, Airman 2-C Peter Horn, also testified his father spent the day at home. A total of eight defense witnesses appeared.

Accident Victim

Meanwhile, the five-year-old accident victim involved in a crash Feb. 22 with Horn remains in a coma this morning at Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia.

However, Gail McKnight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McKnight, 2929 A street, is now listed by hospital officials as in "fair" condition.

Levittown Club Attends Fete

Seven members of the Levittown Kiwanis Club attended a dinner last night in Glenside honoring the new international Kiwanis president, Reed C. Culp, of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Over 500 Kiwanians representing 74 clubs in the area converged to Casa Conti Restaurant to pay tribute to the new executive on his first official visit to Pennsylvania.

Attending the affair from the Levittown club were Tim Fahey, president; William Vantilburg vice president; Paul Dickes, treasurer; William Quinlan, secretary; Anthony Casciato, chairman of the Underprivileged Children committee; Murray Cohen, bulletin editor; and Dominic Arcuri, music chairman.

75 Attend Meeting To Organize Unit

More than 75 residents of Bloomsdale Gardens met at the Edgely Fire House last night to organize a civic association.

The group, named Vernon P. Downes, of 2405 Bloomsdale road, as temporary chairman, and Mrs. Betty Fauset, of 5809 Mitchell road, temporary recording secretary.

The meeting was set up with the help of Russell W. Thompson, chairman of the Bristol Township Democratic organization, who chaired the meeting until Mr. Downes was elected. Mr. Thompson will serve as advisor to the organization until it is permanently set up.

Floods Leave

The governors of West Virginia and Kentucky appealed to President Eisenhower for federal assistance. Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia said the situation was critical and that hardship and suffering was "severe."

At least 1,000 persons were forced to flee their homes in and around Williamson and Logan, Va. Contaminated water supplies in both communities created a health hazard, but a water purifier flown into Logan late Wednesday brought some relief.

Pikeville, Ky., a city of 5,500 isolated for two days, received desperately-needed supplies early today from National Guard convoys from London and Ashland. But the city still needed more.

Water Receding

Water was receding in some of the stricken areas but that only eased the situation. More heavy rains in some of the backwoods mountain communities around the Cumberland River kept waters near all-time high marks.

Grundys, Va., a town of 2,000, appealed by radio for help last night but there was no further word by mid-morning from that community. Appeals went out for food, clothing, drinking water and medicine, but rain and fog grounded the helicopters that could carry in the badly - sought supplies.

Bucks Case Ends In Mistrial

Earlier in the day, Durst explained the Po-Lab corporation was to manufacture fingerprint and scientific crime detection equipment.

Durst explained that on July 25, 1955, he and his brother made out a check to Burke, who allegedly had a license to buy and sell guns, to buy two Colt revolvers from a Philadelphia firm and resell them at a profit.

The revolvers were purchased and placed in a company drawer, and after Sept. 25, 1955, when Durst discovered the guns were missing, he said he was told by Burke that the latter had sold them to Chief of Police Maxwell, New Hope.

On Oct. 19, Durst said he was informed by Chief Maxwell that the chief had never ordered, received or purchased the revolvers.

'Out of Cash'

Durst said the corporation at that time "was out of cash," and that it needed the money for the revolvers. After the episode with the revolvers, Burke was dismissed from the company.

Checking through the serial numbers of the revolvers, Durst said he learned that Burke had sold them to a sporting goods store near Doylestown, which brought about the fraudulent conversion charge.
